

ICAEW CFAB
THE GLOBAL QUALIFICATION
FOR BUSINESS-MINDED PEOPLE

Be anywhere. Do everything.

The global qualification for business-minded people

The ICAEW Certificate in Finance, Accounting and Business (ICAEW CFAB) is the practical business qualification for those interested in or working in business.

Internationally recognised and respected by employers around the world, the course content makes it ideal for all kinds of business-minded people.

Whether you're starting out on your career, setting up your own business or simply looking to develop your skills, ICAEW CFAB will support you every step of the way.

Over six modules, you can learn about business and finance, management information, law, assurance, and the principles of tax and accounting - all practical areas of study that will help you achieve your goals.

As you complete each module, you will receive a certificate of achievement.

Unlike other courses, you don't have to follow an academic year. You can sign up and study for ICAEW CFAB at any time. You can do this in a classroom, online or by yourself at home.

If you are currently working or doing other courses, that is absolutely fine. Ultimately you can go at your own pace and complete the modules in your own time.

The majority of our students complete ICAEW CFAB within two years; but there is no set timetable.

You can study ICAEW CFAB as a stand-alone qualification or use it as the first step towards gaining professional status.

The certificate can take you all the way to qualifying as a chartered accountant by completing the ACA qualification, and it can also be your stepping stone to the ICAEW Business and Finance Professional (BFP) designation.

As a BFP, you will have the right to use letters after your name to demonstrate your commitment to professional development. As an ACA, you will be a member of one of the most prestigious global professional bodies.

Achieving your goals

Since its launch, more than 8,000 people around the world have signed up for ICAEW CFAB. Their reason for doing so is different from one person to the next.

Some already work in business and want to develop their skills.

Others are starting out on their careers, and are keen to build their knowledge about finance, accounting and business.

We have students who are setting up their own business or simply looking to change careers, while others use a career break as an opportunity to develop a new set of skills.

WHO IS IT FOR?

You could have just left school or university. You may be an experienced business or finance professional, or you could be doing a completely unconnected job.

Equally you could be a small business owner or entrepreneur. No matter what stage you are at in your professional life, the content of the programme is designed to help you achieve your goals.

‘ICAEW CFAB has helped me to become an all-rounded individual, giving me technical skills as well as soft skills to launch my career upwards in the corporate world.’

The structure

ICAEW CFAB consists of six modules. Each one focuses on a key aspect of finance, business or accounting, giving you practical insights and knowledge that will help you in your career.

Here is an overview of what each module covers.

ACCOUNTING

Assets and liabilities; profit and loss; cash flow; and invoicing.

MANAGEMENT INFORMATION

Business costs; pricing strategies; measuring business performance; and management decisions.

LAW

Company law; setting up a company; employment law; and supplier or client disputes.

PRINCIPLES OF TAXATION

Tax requirements for people and companies; and implications of not complying with tax requirements.

BUSINESS, TECHNOLOGY AND FINANCE

Business planning; financing options; and competition.

ASSURANCE

What is it, why is it important; and understanding business risk.

‘When I signed up for ICAEW CFAB, I was almost finished with my Bachelor’s degree and I completed the qualification while working at a public accountancy office.’

I started studying for ICAEW CFAB because I wanted to gain more recognition in the accountancy sector and as a way to boost my professional career and develop my skills.

I found out about ICAEW CFAB through a seminar at my university, as part of a partnership with ICAEW. This involved a mock exam and scholarship for those who wanted recognition by means of a qualification.

My work and the ICAEW CFAB modules have a lot in common. The technical knowledge I have acquired has helped me with complex problem solving. I have developed my analytical skills and now feel more confident in giving advice on challenging issues.

I am currently working as an associate in Audit Advisory Services. I help clients to implement accounting standards and other advisory services to enhance their business processes. ICAEW CFAB has helped me deliver even better results at work and add value to the organisation.

As an ICAEW CFAB holder, I am now planning to apply for the ICAEW Business and Finance Professional (BFP) designation and gradually start studying towards the Advanced Level exams for the ACA qualification. This will give me chartered accountancy status and professional recognition in the business world.
