

Without Question

An innovative learning experience for non-executive directors

Without Question is an innovative training tool for non-executive directors

Without Question* brings to life issues and situations current and aspiring non-executive directors may face in their increasingly challenging roles. This realistic film drama will provoke debate and discussion.

The quality of the script, direction, acting and the realism of Without Question and False Assurance (ICAEW's first drama film) set them apart from other corporate training films.

Without Question runs for 42 minutes and is split into five parts so it can be used as part of an interactive workshop. The break points have been selected at key stages in the unfolding drama to provide the platform for audiences to consider how the characters have handled difficult issues in the preceding part. Audience members can then discuss what they would do next. Without Question raises a number of topical issues including:

- Challenges of working with dominant chief executives.
- Balancing sustainable development with maximising profits.
- Remuneration of executives and the basis for their bonus awards.
- Prior year or current year adjustments.
- Degree of disclosure of contingent liabilities.

There has already been a considerable amount of interest in Without Question from the business community including invitations to run workshops at director network events and at business schools.
